2. Abstract content

Firstly, the state management institution for postgraduate education is a system of legal provisions issued by the competent State authority, under which State administrative apparatuses apply regulations regarding the state management of postgraduate education in such consistent manner to meet the requirements set forth for postgraduate education in particular, and education, in general.

Secondly, after 30 years of reformation, there has been notable development of the state management institution. Besides, there still exist shortcomings like: the nonuniformity of legal documents has not undergone timely amendment and supplementation (8 major restrictions are pointed out in the thesis paper). Similarly, the state management apparatus for postgraduate education still faces several insufficiency in terms of institutional organization, human resources and specifically, the establishment of the “management board“ model resulting in such interference of the management operation of postgraduate educational institutions. This has significant impact on the effetiveness and efficiency of state management of postgraduate education.

In terms of content, legal provisions must establish legal basis to ensure the autonomy and self-responsibility mechanism of educational institutions, on the ground of increasing social quality control and monitor, evaluate, handle State violations; (2) Solution to enhance the state management apparatuses for postgraduate education: models of state management apparatus for postgraduate education should undergo reformation; strengthen, develop administrative and monitoring capacity of the Minsitry of Education and Training; strengthen, develop the quality and expertise of government officials within the Ministry of Education and Training; improve coordination across State agencies; (3) Other solutions such as: strengthen the Party’s leadership towards education, promote administrative reformation, improve quality and efficiency of managerial activities, focus on management of educational quality; establish a development strategy; increase resources for postgraduate education; expand international partnership in postgraduate education.
